'Enterprise Zone' status through 2022 for West Sac

West Sacramento officials announced last month that the city had received the designation of "Enterprise Zone" from the state Department of Housing and Community Development, effective until January, 2023.

There are 42 Enterprise Zones in the state. Businesses in such zones are eligible for state hiring tax credits, sales and use tax credits, increased expense deductions, and preference for state contracts. They are designed to help spur economic development.

"This is an important step in our continuing efforts to strengthen and diversify our city's economy," said Mayor Christopher Cabaldon in a city press release. "The tax benefits and other financial incentives that this program provides are an important tool for encouraging the type of business and job growth we want to see."

The Enterprise Zone's boundaries include most of West Sacramento's major commercial areas.

11 alleged 'johns' nabbed

An undercover female police officer helped nab 11 suspected "johns" on April 20 during a West Sacramento Police Department prostitution "sting" operation. The operation took plaçe from about 1 p.m. to 11 p.m. outside the El Tejon Motel, 1821 West Capitol Avenue.

"We had one undercover officer working," said Lieutenant Tod Sockman of the W.S.P.D. "She goes out and walks along the strip, and they come to her. We don't overtly go out and try to contact people. They ask her 'are you working?' or 'are you looking for a date?', or some of them just come right out and ask her if she's a prostitute. Then there's a negotiation of sex for money, and once there is all the elements of a crime, we arrest them."

At least one suspect's car was impounded, but further details weren't available.

"They were all arrested for prostitution or solicitation of prostitution," said Sockman.

Show dates will be on Saturdays, May 8 & 15 at 7 p.m., and Friday, May 14 at 6:30 p.m. at OLG School, 1990 Linden Road. Tickets are $5 for adults and $3 for children. Five different kids will have a chance at playing "Alice," and a new sound system will be in place in time for the show.

A fire engine from Station 43, the city's Harbor Blvd. station, responded to the report of a fire in a truck sales yard on April 20.

The crew found one "semi" on fire with flames "impinging" on trucks parked next to it, reports the department.

"The crew quickly extinguished the fire, but one truck was a total loss and two other semi units were damaged," said a spokesperson from the West Sacramento Fire Department. "(The cause) is still under investigation."

Sea Scouts pick up 78-foot trawler

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

West Sacramento's Sea Scouts have a 60-ton new toy.

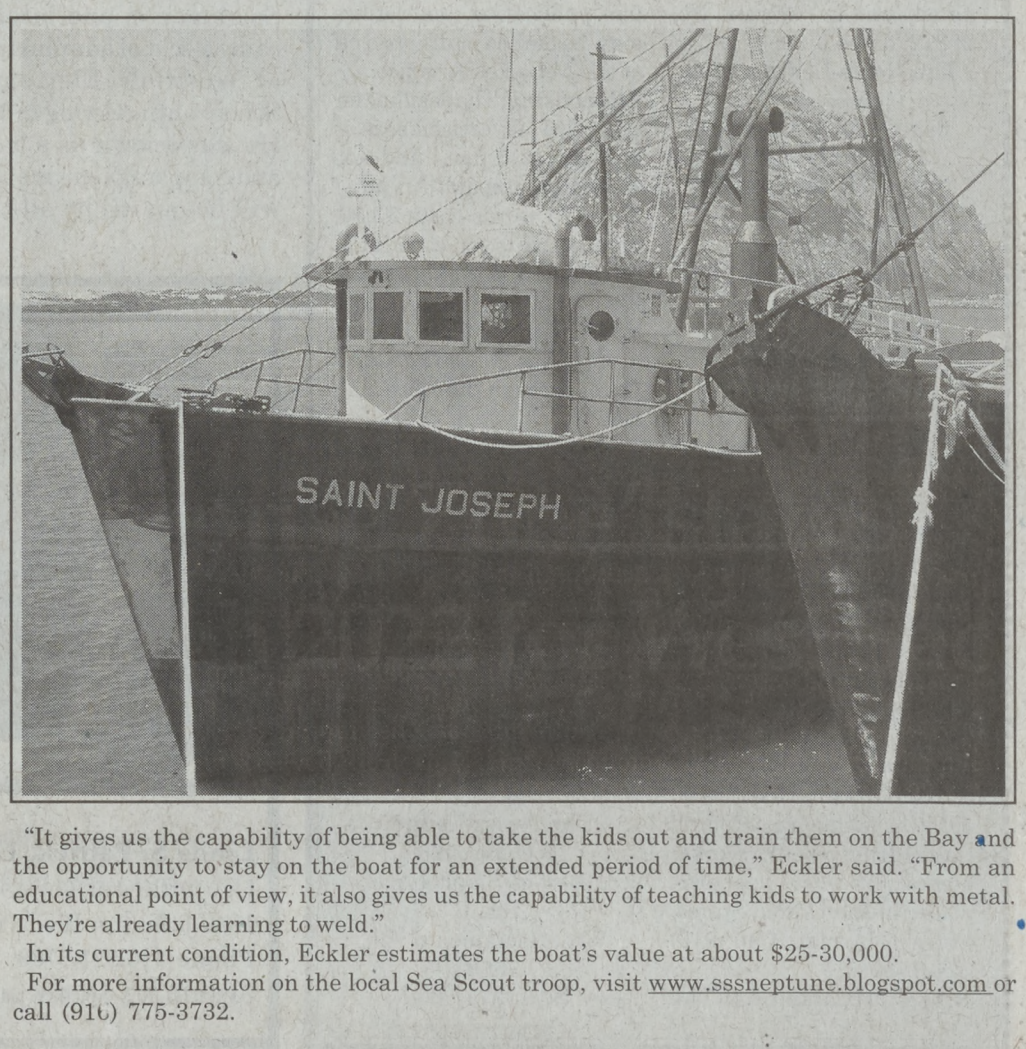
The Boy Scout-affiliated maritime group has taken possession of a former shrimp trawler in Morro Bay, after another Sea Scout chapter was unable to accept the vessel as a donation. Sea Scout leader ("skipper") Nate Eckler hopes to take a crew to the Central Coast to bring back the "Saint Joseph" sometime soon.

"We're targeting bringing it up in mid-July," said Eckler. "We have another Sea Scout vessel that is going to follow us up the coast. It's not in bad shape, for having spent a few years sitting around tied to a buoy. It needs some priming and painting."

The new old boat will join a flotilla that includes a 27-foot O'Day sailboat, a 23-foot racing sailboat on the San Francisco Bay, a 14-foot Lido sailboat and a Chris Craft Cruiser docked on the Sacramento River.

"Mayor Cabaldon also donated his 21-foot ski boat," said Eckler.

The 78-foot steel trawler adds something different to the fleet of fiberglass and wooden boats. It will offer opportunities for the ten current Sea Scouts to learn, both on and off the water.



"It gives us the capability of being able to take the kids out and train them on the Bay and the opportunity to stay on the boat for an extended period of time," Eckler said. "From an educational point of view, it also gives us the capability of teaching kids to work with metal. They're already learning to weld."

In its current condition, Eckler estimates the boat's value at about $25-30,000.

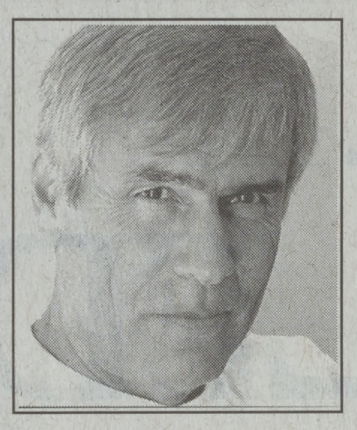
Do you need schooling to be successful?

My Back Pages



By Daryl Fisher

Many years ago, I had a conversation with one of my sons that went a little something like this:

"It's all a crock, Dad, isn't it?" he asked me, looking up from a middle school homework assignment he was working on.

"What's a crock?" I asked."

"School."

"School is not a crock, Paul."

"Yes it is."

"Well," I said, "even if it is, you're not supposed to know about it yet."

"But do you realize I've already put in seven years of school, and there's still another six more to go."

"Ten more to go," I quickly corrected him. "Don't forget, you have to go to college, too."

"See, now that's exactly what I mean. It never ends!"

"Trust me," I assured my son, "it goes by faster than you think. So just do your best and try to keep your grades up."

"And that's another thing," continued my son, "I overheard you and Mom just the other day saying that grades and test scores aren't all that important to you, so how come I still gotta keep trying to get A's and B's?"

"Well," I said, "so I'll know you're not lazy or taking drugs, among other things."

"What?"

"Look, Paul, it's true that good grades won't make you successful or smart. In fact, real smarts is something which life will more or less beat into you as you grow older. But good grades do tell me how you're doing in a couple of other areas which I think are very important."

"Like what?"

"Well, most kids who are getting decent grades are at least making an effort at being organized, they usually listen well to people who just might know something, like teachers and parents, they don't have a lot of spare time on their hands to get into trouble, and they actually flip through the pages of a book or newspaper now and then. Plus, they're usually industrious and conscientious, and those two things alone can take you a long ways in this world."

"Maybe so, Dad," said my son with conviction, "but if you ask me, going to school is still nothing but a big crock!"

I was actually reminded of the above conversation because of a little news story I recently ran across online about a book entitled "The Millionaire Mind." It was written by a man named Thomas J. Stanley and after surveying 1,300 millionaires, he discovered something very interesting – that the average millionaire made C's and B's in school, not A's. So, while the conventional wisdom has always been that it's the A students with high SAT scores who go to prestigious schools that become millionaires, Stanley could find absolutely no correlation between SAT scores, grade-point average, and future economic achievement. In fact, he found that most millionaires were actually told somewhere along the way that they were not intellectually gifted or smart enough to succeed. He also points out that hard work, not natural genius, is what most millionaires rely on to become successful, and it's actually their "street smarts" that help them find a way to choose careers which match their abilities and interests.

So, at a time when it seems like everyone from the president of the United States to the governor of our state to the average concerned parent are focused on the need to improve both public and private education, I think maybe it's a good thing to reflect for a few minutes on the following:

For some kids, the classroom is a place to flourish, but for others it truly is a form of torture.

For some kids, getting A's is what they do well and they need to be recognized for that particular skill, but for others it's not what they do well, and they don't need to be put down and humiliated because of it.

And for some kids, book learning is something they desire to do from day-one, but for others, it's something they really don't turn their attention to until much later in life.

> Most millionaires were actually told somewhere along the way that they were not intellectually gifted or smart enough to succeed.

Many years ago, I read a really interesting book entitled "Pedagogy of the Oppressed" by a South American educator named Paulo Freire where he talked about American's obsession with the "banking approach" to education, where teachers try to make endless deposits into the heads of young boys and girls (some whose heads are in the classroom, while others are daydreaming of much more important things) with the hope that someday students will be able to make withdrawals when needed. And not only has that system proved to be "bankrupt" in many ways, but somehow we have also let getting a good education and getting a good job become one and the same thing, when in reality, they are (and should be) two very different endeavors.

Anyway, at the very least, I suggest that the next time your son or daughter brings home a bunch of C's and D's on his or her report card, you might want to take a few moments to reflect before you start yelling at them and putting them on restriction, because you just might have a future millionaire on your hands.

The 2010 NFL draft last a ery long three days becom- ng a major prime time vent for ESPN with viewer hip reaching over 3.7 mil- ion for their first attempt at prime time show. The raft, which was televised ve from New York, last hursday night, attracted he most viewers ever up 27 ercent from 2009. The rat- gs jackpot continued into riday night improving 24 ercent from last year's sec- nd round telecast according the Nielson Rating Re- earch.

The Raiders surprised ev- ryone with some great draft hoices to strengthen their lefense and addressed a ajor weakness in their of- nsive line. The Silver and Black also added another quarterback to the mix by rading with Washington for heir expendable quarter- back Jason Campbell.

Campbell, who was a first ound pick in 2005, led the edskins to a 20-32 record s a starter and has a career assing rating of 82.3. Campbell will push aMarcus Russell for the uarterback job. The Raid- rs used their first pick to elect linebacker Rolando IcClain from Alabama and hen followed with defensive ineman, Lamarr Houston rom Texas.

The 49ers on the other and decided to protect their uarterbacks and running acks by investing their two irst round picks on offensive ineman Anthony Davis rom Rutgers and Mike upati from Idaho. The Niners then followed up with JSC safety Taylor Mays and inebacker Navarro Bowman ut of Penn State.

Overall the 2010 draft when ell for both Bay Area eams and with their soft chedules the Raiders and 9ers should improve on their 2009 seasons.

Diamond Notes

The Oakland A's (12-8), who are holding on to first place in the West, are starting to enjoy the return of Eric Chavez's bat to their line-up. Chavez is still bothered by a bad shoulder but his timely hitting is starting to pay dividends. The A's pitchers are surprisingly holding teams down and have three shutouts recorded this season.

The Giants (11-8) are barely hanging on to first especially after losing four games on the road last week. The G-Men came home to take 2 out 3 from St. Louis and are now hosting the Phillies. The Giants are battling the injury bug again with Rowand out with fractured cheek bone and Juan Uribe nursing a sore elbow. The middle of the batting order is in Déjà vu from last season. Great pitching and no hitting!

Newly acquired first baseman Aubrey Huff has been a bust for the Giants with only six RBI's in 17 games and leadoff man Eugenio Velez going 5 for 25 with only three walks but the big disappointment has been Mark DeRosa hitting .238. DeRosa is supposed to protect the clean-up hitting Bengie Molina who is holding his own at .308.

The A's will be on the road this week to Tampa Bay and Toronto while the Giants stay home to entertain the Phillies and the Colorado Rockies over the weekend.

River Cats

The River Cats (9-10) actually won their home opener on April 16, which I mistakenly pointed out last week as a loss; continue to struggle a little bit but their schedule is going to worst before it gets any better. The Cats are scheduled to play 20 consecutive days with their only break in playing, barring rain, scheduled for May 19th.

The River Cats are on the road this week in Las Vegas followed by a four game stop in Fresno before they return to Raley Field for a pair of four game series starting on Monday, May 3rd to against Salt Lake City and then Colorado Springs comes to West Sacramento for four games starting on Friday night.

onship trophy to River City High School. The Raider Tennis Team downed Foothill 6 to 2 and Cosumnes Oaks 7 to 2 in CVC action and then outscored teams from the north state to take first place in Quincy.

Against Foothill, the visiting Raiders received 10-0 girls doubles wins from the pair of Tuyet Hoang and Michelle Truong at #1 and the team of Lai Saetern and Jai London at #2. In boys doubles, Phi Dinh and Jim Saetern took the top position 10-6 and Trevor Langford and Victor Vang earned a 10-1 win at #2. 10-2 girls singles wins came from Ranika Prasad (#1) and Monica Anaya (#2).

In the home match with Cosumnes Oaks, RC dropped a total of just nine games in the five doubles contests. Langford and Victor Vang again teamed up, this time for a 10-5 win at #1 boys doubles. Nick Gonzales made his varsity debut in a 10-2 victory at #2 boys doubles with teammate Tony Yang. Hoang and Truong won 10-1 at #1 girls and Lai Saetern and Elizabeth Maniulit did the same at the #2 spot. In mixed, Dinh and Anaya blanked their Wolf Pack opponents 10-0. The singles victories came from Thomas Thao, 6-3, 6-4 at #2 boys and Prasad 6-0,6-1 at #2 girls.

Earning two points for every main draw victory and a point for each win in the consolation brackets, the Raiders again brought home the Quincy Invite championship. Led by Dinh and Hoang, who each went a perfect 8 and 0 in their matches, the Raiders cruised past 2nd place Plumas Christian and 3rd place Chester. Etna took fourth place, the host Quincy Trojans 5th, and Downieville finished in 6th. Dinh and Hoang won the tourney's mixed doubles event, Dinh and Vongsri Vang came in first in boys doubles, and Hoang and Truong won the girls doubles crown. Vang took third place in boys singles and Truong did the same in girls singles, as did Yang and Maniulit in mixed. Rebounding after first round losses to win consolation titles were Gonzales in boys singles, and Lai Saetern in both girls singles and doubles with Maniulit.

The regular season ends with CVC matches at the Rio Del Oro Racquet Club against Sacramento Country Day on Wednesday, April 28th and the last home match of the CVC slate on Friday the 30th against Rio Linda. Matches begin at 4:00pm. The Raiders are 10 and 2 in the CVC and 14 and 3 overall this season.

NBA Playoffs

The playoffs are still in the first round with only the Bobcats having been eliminated by the Magic but the Oklahoma Thunder have the defending champion Lakers on their heels with their best of seven series tied 2-2.

The Mavs are also in trouble with the Spurs leading 3-1 and the Nuggets are also in the same boat trailing the Jazz while the Suns are in bar fight with Portland leading their series 3-2.

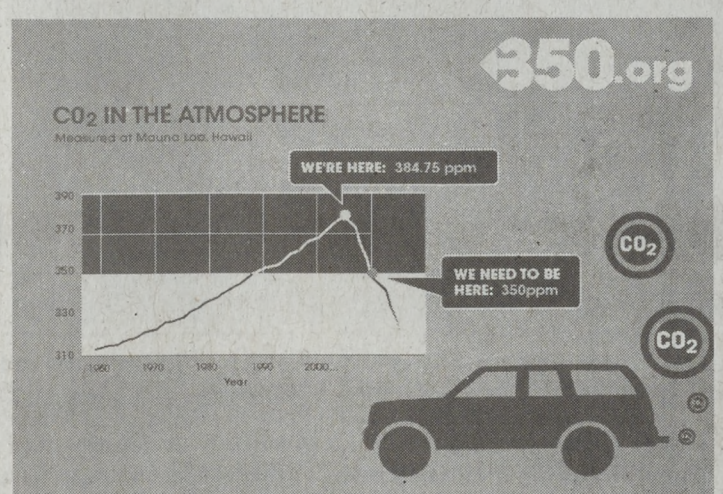
In the East, the Cavs have the Bulls on the ropes (3-1) and the Celtics (3-1) just need one more win to eliminate the Heat but the Milwaukee Bucks are giving the Atlanta Hawks (2-2) all they can handle.

Between the Ropes

Don't forget to watch the Shane Mosley fight against the undefeated Floyd Mayweather Jr. on Saturday, May 1st (PPV) for the WBA welterweight title from Las Vegas. The fight should be better than the Pacquiao fight against Clottey in March with the 9-2 underdog Mosley having a slugger's chance, if he can find Mayweather in the ring.

Mosley, 38, last fight was a knockout win over Antonio Margarito in January 2009 while Mr. Mayweather has retired from boxing and then decided to return to action – again!

Enjoy your day – see ya next week!



IT'S MORE THAN A NUMBER. It signifies the safe upper limit of co2 in our atmosphere. It's a symbol of where we need to head as a planet. a target for transforming the world we have into the world we want.

NEWS-LEDGER EDITORIAL:

How can you be against the "taxpayers' right to vote"?

On June 10, you should be.

Pacific Gas & Electric, the private company with huge utility monopoly, has paid millions to put Proposition 16, the "Taxpayers Right to Vote Act," on California's ballot in June. The company claims it's all about protecting you: the ballot would require local governments, such as West Sacramento's, to get two-thirds approval from voters before putting a dime of public money into providing local electricity through any power provider other than PG&E.

The measure sounds like a fine idea for fiscal watchdogs. But its real purpose is to raise the bar even higher for local communities who are not happy with PG&E, and who would like to explore getting power from other sources. Proposition 16 would force special elections for those cities and counties who want to make a change.

These elections would use a deck stacked in favor of PG&E. As a private company, PG&E can and will spend millions to defeat any attempt by a city or county to jump ship and go to a nonprofit utility provider. Meanwhile, the cities, counties, and public utility districts who might want to make a change would be hamstrung in their own attempts to campaign for an election. They can't use public dollars to campaign for a change, yet they would (under Prop. 16) have to find a way to win with a two-thirds vote.

A big imbalance of money can muddy up just about any election issue. Sow enough confusion on any ballot measure, and people will vote "no." So Prop. 16 is not so much a "protect the taxpayer's right to vote" ballot measure as it is a "protect PG&E's right to make profits" measure.

For West Sacramento and Yolo County, the PG&E issue brings back some recent, painful memories. In 2006, the region – led by a consensus of local officials and business leaders – decided that the publicly owned Sacramento Municipal Utilities District could provide cheaper electricity and better service than PG&E was providing. But PG&E fought hard to keep nonprofit SMUD off its turf, spending big bucks in the resulting local elections. The SMUD expansion was defeated. It was our loss.

Someday, we may want to try again.

The last thing we need is for Proposition 16 to pass and make it even more difficult to consider an alternative provider of electricity. If the measure does pass, PG&E will become even more complacent in its position as our only choice for electricity. It will have something close to veto power whenever we consider another way to get electricity.

Proposition 16 is a wolf in wolf's clothing.

It was good to see West Sacramento's William Lowell "front and center" during the groundbreaking of the new city transit center at West Capitol Avenue and Merkley Avenue on April 8.

Lowell is a familiar sight around the city. He cuts a large figure, and is usually adorned with a baseball cap and a number of slogan and campaign buttons, and is usually pulling a two-wheeled cart with his gear. He travels on foot and by bus.

He is famous among the city hall crowd for being able to work his concerns about the local bus system into his remarks at the podium on just about any kind of public issue facing the city council or planning commission. He's a guy who cares about the city in general, and public transit in particular. He's earned a moment in the sun, or two, as the city celebrates a new transit center.

GUEST OPINION:

No evidence that deputies broke the rules

From Captain Rich Williams
Yolo County Sheriff's Department

In February 2010, several local media outlets reported on the activities of a non-governmental group known as "Independent Civil Rights Commission," which held hearings in Woodland regarding allegations of improper conduct during the service of a search warrant. Santiago Ochoa, Griselda Rodriquez, and their daughter spoke to the group, making several allegations of misconduct by Sheriff's Department personnel, regarding a search warrant that was served at their residence eight months prior, in June of 2009.

The Yolo County Sheriff's Department takes any allegation of misconduct involving its employees seriously. When we were notified of the allegations, an administrative investigation was immediately initiated, as no complaints regarding this incident had been previously submitted to the Department. The findings of the investigation were based upon interviews with all of the witnesses present, including a patrol Lieutenant, officers, and the Ochoa family. Also, a comprehensive review of available records and other documents regarding this incident was conducted.

The investigation has been completed. Although personnel investigations are confidential by law, the evidence revealed that employees of the Sheriff's Department did not violate any laws, Department Rules or regulations, and that their actions were within policy, reasonable and necessary. As to the allegations that Sheriff's Personnel violated specific regulations regarding standards of conduct, unreasonable display and improper handling of firearms - the investigation proved that the alleged act or acts did not occur. The employees were exonerated of any misconduct.

The Yolo County Sheriff's Department thoroughly investigates any allegations of misconduct. Sheriff Ed Prieto stated, "These allegations do not reflect the hard work, dedication and professionalism of this Department and our members in our focus to bring the community "Service Without Limitations"".

PICKS OF THE WEEK

"Dirty Dancing: Limited Keepsake Edition" (PG-13) — This release of "Dirty Dancing" is so packed with special features, there's no way you'll put this "baby in a corner" ... of your bookshelf. ...

Sorry about that. Anyhoo, this two-disc set contains not only the newly remastered film, but also every special feature that's been included in previous releases, plus more than an hour's worth of bonus material. Extras include a fan reel created by Facebook fans, a tribute to Patrick Swayze, an interview with Swayze about the dancing in the film, a hardcover 52-page book and a coupon for $50 off a stay at the Mountain Lake Hotel in Virginia, which was used as the Kellerman's Resort in the film. Seriously, with so much stuff in this Keepsake Edition, how could you NOT have "the time of your life"? Aw man, I did it again.

"Doctor Zhivago Anniversary Edition" (PG-13) — Director David Lean's follow up to "Lawrence of Arabia" is another epic adventure that garnered five Academy Awards. Omar Sharif and Julie Christie star in this majestic love story set during the Russian Revolution. Sharif plays the titular doctor, who also is a poet. Christie is Lara, a married woman who becomes his muse. Zhivago is married and loves his wife, but also has feelings for the beautiful Lara. Torn by his love for two women, the poet must make a choice while their world erupts in turbulent conflict.

"Hamlet" (Unrated) — David Tennant ("Doctor Who") stars as the Melancholy Dane in this critically acclaimed Royal Shakespeare Company production of the Bard's tale of madness, murder and political intrigue. Co-starring in a riveting double-performance is Patrick Stewart (Capt. Jean-Luc Picard from "Star Trek"), who plays both Hamlet's uncle Claudius, and the ghost of Hamlet's murdered father. Tennant's performance is both exhilarating and heart-wrenching — which will probably come as a surprise to many who only know the Scottish actor from his lighthearted portrayal as the time-traveling hero from "Doctor Who."

Jennifer Grey and Patrick Swayze star in "Dirty Dancing."

"Rock 'N' Roll High School" (Rated R) — Directed by B-movie king Roger Corman and starring The Ramones and P.J. Soles, "Rock 'N' Roll High School" is a punk-rock classic. When a fascist principal (Mary Woronov) takes over Vince Lombardi High School, The Ramones and the students fight back using the Power of Rock! And explosives.

Twilight: The Graphic Novel, Volume 1
by Stephenie Meyer and Young Kim
(Yen Press, $19.99)
Reviewed by Ealish Waddell

In case you've been living on a desert island for the past couple of years, the gist of the novel "Twilight" is this: Quiet girl moves to gloomy town and falls for brooding classmate, who turns out to be equally drawn to her, despite the pesky fact that he is a vampire who might at any moment snap, kill her and consume all her blood.

With talk of soulmates, destinies and lots and lots of yearning, it's pure wish-fulfillment for romantic misfits who just long to be understood. Perhaps that's why the stories seem to have struck a chord not just with dreamy tweens, but with readers of all ages and backgrounds.

In addition to the hit movies and endless parade of tangential merchandise that surround the "Twilight" phenomenon, now there's another version of the original story being offered up to these voracious fans. In concert with author Stephenie Meyer, artist Young Kim has created an extremely faithful graphic-novel adaptation of the tale. The book is labeled "Volume 1" and only covers the first half of the prose version, but it's a strong enough effort to give readers hope that the rest of the planned series will be equally effective.

Mostly black and white with a few judicious splashes of watercolor, Young's version of "Twilight" is certainly appealing visually. The style of the layout, characters and backgrounds owes much to the contemporary manhwa techniques common to comics in Kim's native Korea (similar to manga in Japan) — the art is vivid, fluid and inviting, with a soft, often sketchy quality that's pleasing to the eye.

Meanwhile, the narrative is brisk and easy to follow, deftly hitting all the important plot highs that the expectant fan will be waiting for with palpitating heart. For while it's certainly possible for this to be a reader's first exposure to "Twilight," it is even more likely to be a supplement to the story for those who have already digested the plot elsewhere.

Q. How is actress Maura Tierney doing in her breast cancer treatment? Will she be back on TV soon? — Greta D., via e-mail

A. Maura's representative, Christina Papadopolous, said that the 45-year-old actress "has finished treatment and is doing very well, and is happy to move forward with the next phase of her life." That next phase happens to be returning to the FX network's action-drama "Rescue Me," where she'll return in 2011 for four episodes as Denis Leary's love interest during the show's seventh (and final) season.

Q. I thought Conan O'Brien was going to be heading to Fox with his late-night talk show, but now I hear he is going to TBS. Is this true? And is he taking over George Lopez's timeslot? — Trista W., Seattle

A. Conan recently announced that he will indeed be bringing his late-night-hosting duties to TBS. His show will air at 11 p.m., with George Lopez taking on the midnight timeslot with "Lopez Tonight." However, make no mistake: There is no animosity in this timeslot switcharoo. George is the one who actively courted and pursued Conan to sign with TBS, and he couldn't be happier that Conan accepted.

"I can't think of anything better than doing my show with Conan as my lead-in," George said. "It's the beginning of a new era in late-night comedy." With a reported eight-figure deal, as well as allowing Conan to own his own show (which he would not have been able to at Fox), the move to TBS was the most profitable, creativity-wise and monetary-wise.

Q. I was very upset to hear that Dixie Carter had passed away. She was the epitome of grace, beauty and talent. How are her friends and family doing? — Edith D., via e-mail

A. Not surprisingly, Dixie's family is heartbroken by her passing on April 10 from complications of endometrial cancer at the age of 70. Husband Hal Holbrook released this statement: "This has been a terrible blow to our family. We would appreciate everyone understanding that this is a private family tragedy."

Friend and former "Designing Women" co-star Annie Potts told People magazine: "Dixie Carter was a Goddess. The kind of wife and mother that every mother hopes their daughter will become, and the kind of friend that is absolutely irreplaceable. She loved fiercely and was adored in return."

Q. Is James Van Der Beek getting married again? I've heard that he is, but didn't he just recently get divorced from his first wife? — Ginger F., Port St. Lucie, Fla.

A. While the former "Dawson's Creek" star hasn't revealed if there are wedding bells in the future for him and girlfriend Kimberly Brook, I do predict plenty of diapers and pacifiers. James recently revealed via Twitter (the latest go-to forum for celebs to reveal personal, breaking news) that he and Kimberly are expecting their first child later this year.

Poule au Pot with Tarragon

Stewed chicken and vegetables is a favorite Sunday supper in France. Use the leftover broth as the base for a soup later in the week.

- 3 medium (about 1 pound) leeks
- 1 (3 1/2 pound) chicken, cut into 8 pieces
- 1 pound small red potatoes
- 1 bag (16 ounces) carrots, peeled and cut into 3-inch pieces
- 4 cups water
- 1 can (14 1/2 ounces) chicken broth
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon dried thyme
- 1/4 teaspoon ground black pepper
- 1 large sprig fresh tarragon, chopped
- 1 tablespoon chopped fresh tarragon

1. Cut off roots and trim dark green tops from leeks; cut each leek lengthwise in half, then crosswise into 3-inch pieces. Rinse in large bowl of cold water, swishing to remove sand; transfer to colander to drain, leaving sand in bottom of bowl.

2. In 6- to 8-quart Dutch oven, combine leeks, chicken, potatoes, carrots, water, broth, salt, thyme, pepper and tarragon sprig. Heat to boiling over high heat. Reduce heat; cover and simmer until chicken loses its pink color throughout, about 45 minutes.

3. With slotted spoon, transfer chicken and vegetables to serving bowl. Remove and discard skin from chicken. Skim and discard fat from broth. Pour 1 cup broth over chicken (refrigerate remaining broth for another use). To serve, sprinkle chopped tarragon on top. Makes 4 main-dish servings.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• It was beloved American comedian and actor Bob Hope who made the following extremely sage observation: "People who throw kisses are hopelessly lazy."

• Next time you're in Tinseltown, remember that it is unlawful to herd more than 3,000 sheep at a time down Hollywood Boulevard.

• In the naming of American states, there a quite a few that never quite made it. It's interesting to speculate about the possibilities, though. For instance, if you currently reside in the state of Kentucky or parts of Tennessee, but for the whimsy of fate you could be a Transylvanian. Some people once wanted to take parts of Texas and Oklahoma to create the great state of Texlahoma (perhaps displaying a slight lack of imagination). When the Mormon church settled out west, Brigham Young petitioned to have the state of Deseret created, and the land he suggested make up the state included present-day Utah, almost all of Nevada and Arizona, a sizable chunk of California and bits of five other states. Long Island, in New York, even had designs on statehood at one time.

• In the 19th century, ice accounted for more shipping than any other commodity except cotton.

• William Howard Taft, the 18th president of the United States, was a large man. Quite a large man. In fact, he was so large that his 300-pound bulk got stuck in a White House bathtub, and he had to summon help to extricate himself.

• The French town of Versailles was originally built solely to house the staff of the extravagant palace.

Celebrate Cinco de Mayo With Mexican Migas

The fifth of May — or, as it's known in Mexico and cities around the United States, Cinco de Mayo — is a regional Mexican holiday. On May 5, 1862, at the Battle of Puebla, the Mexican army led by Mexican General Ignacio Zaragoza Seguín was victorious over the French army. It's a cultural holiday celebrated all over the United States, and in the state of Puebla and other states in Mexico. Cinco de Mayo also is the perfect time to add a cultural recipe to your culinary repertoire.

Migas (which means crumbs) is a spicy egg and cheese dish that uses broken tortilla chips to create a delicious, all-vegetarian dish. It's popular in Mexico and the Southwestern United States. Migas are full of protein, and transform ordinary eggs into a quick breakfast, a delicious brunch or lunch, or a delicious main-course meal.

My family and I love Migas, and the numerous other ethnic vegetarian dishes we've added to our daily menu. We've become more adventurous, more open-minded about other cultures, and received the added benefit of a healthier diet and some delicious recipes!

A celebration is the perfect time to try something new. Mexican Migas are a tasty way to introduce your family to a historic celebration and a meatless, yet-satisfying meal.

MEXICAN MIGAS

- 1 tablespoon canola oil
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 6 sun-dried tomatoes in oil, chopped, OR 1 medium tomato, seeded and diced
- 1 cup salsa of choice
- 2 cups corn tortilla chips, crushed into large pieces
- 8 eggs, beaten
- 1 cup shredded Monterey Jack cheese

1. Using a large skillet, heat the pan on high for 1 minute. Add the oil, butter, tomatoes and salsa. Cook, stirring, for 1 minute. Crush 1 cup of chips and add them to the pan, stirring to combine them with the salsa. Reduce heat to medium and cook for 1 minute.

2. Reduce heat to low and add the beaten eggs to the mixture in the pan. Cook the eggs, gently scraping the bottom of the pan to remove the cooked egg and allow the raw egg to make contact with the heat. Proceed until the eggs are cooked but still soft, about 3 to 5 minutes.

3. Add the remaining tortilla chips to the pan. Mix gently to combine. Sprinkle the migas with the shredded cheese. Serve immediately. Makes 4 servings.

Chocolate Fondue

Fondue is French for "melted," and this easy-to-make dessert will melt many a chocolate lover's heart. It's fantastic with fruit, but try other dunkables, too — marshmallows or cubes of angel food or pound cake.

- 6 ounces semisweet chocolate, coarsely chopped
- 1/4 cup half-and-half or light cream
- 1 tablespoon flavored liqueur such as cherry, orange, coffee or raspberry, optional
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract
- Fruit such as whole strawberries or chunks of banana, pineapple or pear
- 1/2 cup almonds, toasted and finely chopped (optional)

1. In heavy 1-quart saucepan or fondue pot, melt chocolate with half-and-half over low heat until mixture is smooth, stirring frequently. Stir in liqueur and vanilla; keep sauce warm.

2. To serve, arrange fruit on large platter. Spoon fondue into small bowl if you like. Place nuts in another small bowl. With toothpick, dip fruit into fondue, then into almonds if you like.

• Each serving: About 75 calories, 5g total fat (3g saturated), 2mg cholesterol, 2mg sodium, 8g total carbohydrate, 1g dietary fiber, 1g protein.

Now here's a tip!

by Jo Ann Derson

• "To keep a pet from chewing on an electrical cord, rub the length of the cord lightly with a bar of soap. One taste is enough to keep most pets from coming back. It's not foolproof, so please still keep an eye on your pets!" — B.L. in Mississippi

• "Rake fingernails over a bar of soap to keep dirt out from nails while gardening. This has been repeated several times, but it's so handy and works so well, it's worth it." — O.E. in South Carolina

• Deep conditioning your hair at home can be done inexpensively. Chill a can of coconut milk so it solidifies, then rub the "grease" into your hair, avoiding the direct scalp. Leave it on for half an hour and rinse out with warm water.

• "Instead of using creamer in my iced coffee drinks, I use a powdered protein that I purchase at the vitamin store. It adds a creamy quality and a little extra nutrition." — C.D. in Florida

• An old piece of wisdom that's worth repeating for the picnic season: Keep hot foods hot and cold foods cold. Take along several kitchen timers set for 1 hour. Check food to make sure it is maintaining its temperature.
